Laws of the United States

Passed at the Second Session of the Thirty-Seventh Congress.

[PUBLIC—No. 108.]

AN ACT Donating Public Lands to the several States and Territories which may provide Colleges for the benefit of Agriculture and the Mechanic Arts.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That there be granted to the several States for the purposes hereinafter mentioned, an amount of public land to be apportioned to each State, a quantity equal to 30,000 acres for each Senator and Representative in Congress to which the States are respectively entitled by the apportionment under the census of 1860; provided, that no mineral lands shall be selected or purchased under the provisions of this Act.

SEC 2. And be it further enacted, That the land aforesaid, after being surveyed, shall be apportioned to the several States in sections or subdivisions of sections not less than one quarter of a section, and whenever there are public lands in a State subject to sale at private entry at one dollar and twenty five cents an acre, the quantity to which said State shall be entitled shall be selected from such lands within the limits of such State, and the Secretary of the Interior is hereby directed to issue to each of the States in which there is not the quantity of public lands subject to sale at private entry at one dollar and twenty five cents an acre to which said State may be entitled under the provisions of this Act land scrip to the amount in acres for the deficiency of its distributive share, said scrip to be sold by said States, and the proceeds thereof applied to the uses and the purposes prescribed in this Act, and for no other use or purpose whatsoever. Provided, that in no case shall any State to which land scrip may thus be issued be allowed to locate the same within the limits of other State or any Territory of the United States, but their assignees may thus locate said land scrip upon any of the unappropriated lands of the United States subject to sale at private entry at one dollar and twenty-five cents an acre. And provided further that not more than one million acres be located by such assignees in any one of the States. And provided further, That no such locations shall be made before one year from the passage of this Act.

SEC 3. And be it further enacted, That all the expenses of management and superintendence and taxes from date of selection of said lands, previous to their sale, and all expenses incurred in the management and disbursement of the moneys which may be received therefrom, shall be paid by the States to which they may belong out of the treasury of said States, so that the entire proceeds of the sale of said lands shall be applied, without any diminution whatever, to the purposes hereinafter mentioned.

SEC 4. And be it further enacted, That all moneys derived from the sale of lands aforesaid by the by the States to which the lands are apportioned, and from the sales of land scrip hereinbefore provided for, shall be invested in stocks of the United States, or of the States, or of the States, or some other safe stocks, yielding not less than five per centum upon the par value of said stocks, and that the money so invested shall constitute a perpetual fund, the capital of which shall remain forever undiminished (except so far as may be provided for in section fifth of this Act), and the interest of which shall be inviolably appropriated, by each State which may take and claim the benefit of this Act, to the endowment, support, and maintenance of at least one college where the leading object shall be, without excluding other scientific and classical studies, and including military tactics, to teach such branches of learning as are related to agriculture and the mechanic arts, in such manner as the Legislatures of the States may respectively prescribe, in order to promote the liberal and practical education of the industrial classes in the several pursuits and professions in life.

SEC 5. And be it further enacted, That the grant of land and land scrip hereby authorized shall be made on the following conditions, to which, as well as to the provisions hereinbefore contained, the previous assent of the several States shall be signified by legislative Acts:

FIRST. If any portion of the fund invested as provided by the foregoing section, or any portion of the interest thereon, shall by any action or contingency be diminished or lost, it shall be replaced by the State to which it belongs, so that the capital of the fund shall remain forever undiminished, and the annual interest shall be regularly applied without diminution to the purposes mentioned in the fourth section of this Act, except that a sum, not exceeding ten per centum upon the amount received by any State under the provisions of this Act, may be expended for the purchase of lands for sites or experimental farms, whenever authorized by the respective legislatures of said States.

SECOND—No portion of said fund, nor the interest thereon, shall be applied directly or indirectly, under any pretence whatever, to the purchase, erection, preservation, or repair of any building or buildings.

THIRD—Any State which may take and claim the benefit of the provisions of this act shall provide, within five years, at least not less than one college, as described in the fourth section of this act, or the grant to such State shall cease, and said State shall be bound to pay the United States the amount received of any lands previously sold, and that the title to purchasers under the State shall be valid.

FOURTH. An annual report shall be made regarding the progress of each college, recording any improvements or experiments made, with their cost and results, and such other matters, including State industrial and economical statistics, as may be supposed useful; one copy of which shall be transmitted by mail free, by each, to all the other colleges which may be endowed under the provisions of this Act, and also one copy to the Secretary of the Interior.

FIFTH—When lands shall be selected from those which have been raised to double the minimum price, in consequence of railroad grants, they shall be computed to the States at the maximum price, and the number of acres proportionally diminished.

SIXTH—No State while in a condition of rebellion or insurrection against the Government of the United States, shall be entitled to the benefit of this Act.

SEVENTH—No State shall be entitled to the benefits of this Act unless it shall express its acceptance thereof by its Legislature within two years from the date of its approval by the President.

SEC. 6. And be it further enacted, That land scrip issued under the provisions of this Act shall not be subject to location until after the first day of January, 1863.

SEC. 7. And be it further enacted, That the land officers shall receive the same fees for locating land scrip issued under the provisions of this Act as is now allowed for the location of military bounty land warrants under existing laws; provided, their maximum compensation shall not be thereby increased.

SEC. 8. And be it further enacted, That the Governors of the several States to which scrip shall be issued under this Act, shall be required to report annually to Congress all sales made of such scrip until the whole shall be disposed of, the amount received for the same, and what appropriations has been made of the proceeds.

Approved, July 2, 1862.

No flag but the Old Flag—the Red, White and Blue,
With the stars of a Union unbroken and true!
Arise and defend it! ye sons of the brave,
Whose blood bought the banner your valor must save

FRIDAY MORNING, OCT. 17, 1862.

British Neutrality—Earl Russell.

Earl Russell wrote to Mr. Adams, our Minister to the British Court on the 28th of July:

"From the moment that intelligence first reached this country that nine States and several millions of the inhabitants of the great American Union had seceded and made war on the Government of President Lincoln, down to the present time, Her Majesty's Government have pursued a friendly, open, consistent course. They have been neutral between the two parties to civil war. Neither the loss of raw materials so necessary to a great portion of our people, nor insults constantly heaped upon the British name in speeches and newspapers, nor the rigor, beyond the usual practice of nations, with which the Queen's subjects attempting to break loose from the blockade of the Southern ports have been treated, have induced Her Majesty's Government to swerve an inch from impartial neutrality. At this moment they have nothing more at heart than to see that consummation which the President speaks of in his answer to the Governors of eighteen States, namely, the bringing of this unnecessary and injurious civil war to a speedy and satisfactory conclusion."

We are here told that the British Government have been neutral from the beginning of the American rebellion and will remain so. So far good—but what about the steamers with munitions of war sent from British ports to break our blockade and furnish the rebels with arms? What about those Armstrong guns sent to the rebels, the manufacture of which is an extensive monopoly held by the British Government?

The Earl complains of American papers and the insults constantly heaped upon the British name. He must be a reader of American newspapers; but while he thus denounces the American press, he says of the British press (the Times at least is the organ of the Government—known as the "British Thunderer"):

"As to the course of opinion in this country, the President is aware that perfect freedom to comment upon all public events is in this country the invariable practice, sanctioned by law, and approved by the universal sense of the nation."

When did Earl Russell learn that the freedom of commenting on all public events, inherited by us from England, was not in like manner sanctioned or approved by the universal sense of the people of the United States? The Earl is somewhat behind the times. The American press will speak of the treachery of the English Government—"giving the word of promise to the ear and breaking it to the hope" as they choose; without being controlled at all by his taunts on the freedom of the American press.

Union Meeting at Salem.—As will be seen, we have received a copy of the proceedings of the Union meeting held at Salem, on Saturday evening last. It came to us in printed slips from the Statesman office. We notice one little item in the printed copy sent, which differs from the statements previously received. We have reference to the resolution introduced by Mr. Wasserman. The wording is different from that of a copy sent to a friend in this city by the gentleman introducing the resolution. In order to show the difference more distinctly, we place the two together, as follows. Copy of resolution reported by Mr. Wasserman:—

"Resolved, That we endorse the Administration of Abraham Lincoln in all its acts, and express our entire confidence in the ability of the same to carry this war to a successful issue."

Copy of resolution as appears in printed slip from Statesman office:—

"Resolved, That we endorse the administration of President Lincoln in its efforts to crush out the rebellion, and that we have full confidence in its ability to conduct the war to a successful issue."

Will some friend inform us which is a true copy of the original?

Legislative.—We understand that a bill has been introduced into the present Legislature by Mr. Wasserman, providing that in case the Chief or Assistant Engineer of any Fire Department in the State shall, after election, fail to qualify or legally assume the duties of his or their offices, the Board of Directors or Managers shall have power to declare the office vacant and cause a new election to be held. This, we are informed, includes all the provisions of the act.

Postal.—The Post-office at Cole's Valley, Douglas county, is discontinued.

The name of the office at Wailepta, Washington Territory, is changed to Walla Walla.

The following Postmasters have been commissioned: John R. Boyce, Hillsboro, Washington county; William Utter, Whatcom, Washington Territory.

The following appointments have been made: Isaac H. Bush, Cascades, W. T. John Webster, Port Madison, Kitsap county, W. T.

Failed to Connect.—Our telegraphic dispatches "failed to connect" last night; i. e., we did not receive any later news from the East by dispatch from Yreka, per stage. Wires still down, or something else.

Organization of the Union Party.

The members of both branches of the Legislative Assembly, and other citizens of the State, met in the Hall of the House of Representatives, at Salem, on Saturday evening, October 11th, 1862, for the purpose of appointing a Union State Central Committee, and to transact any other business necessary to perfect such organization.

The meeting was called to order by E. L. Applegate.

On motion of Mr. Humason, of Wasco Co., Mr. Hovey, of Benton, was called to the chair, and Mr. Gillette, of Clatsop, was elected Secretary.

By request of the Chair, Mr. Humason stated the object of the meeting.

On motion of Mr. Wasserman, of Multnomah, a committee of three, consisting of Messrs. Wasserman, Watson and Kerns, was appointed to invite Hon. B. F. Harding to address the meeting.

Mr. Harding being introduced responded as follows:

Gentlemen of the Legislative Assembly, and Fellow Citizens: I shall soon leave you, for a short time, to engage in the discharge of duties cast upon me by my election to the highest position that can be conferred by the Legislature of a State of the Union—a position which I accept with no little distrust of my abilities to meet the great requirements of a member of one of the most august assemblies in the world. The responsibilities of such position being much increased by the perils that have been rapidly gathering round our Government, threatening its overthrow, and the subversion of liberties which we have so long enjoyed.

Allow me at this time, before taking that seat, lately occupied by one who was a master of eloquence, possessed of great learning—truly great in the council and in the field, who served you for a brief period with a degree of energy and fidelity to all your interests, that none could surpass; who gave his life for the cause of humanity, who had the power to command, while I can only ask, in whom Liberty lost one of her noblest champions, the nation a statesman and warrior, and Oregon a strong friend and faithful representative—in taking that seat allow me to say that my first efforts shall be to giving the Government all the support I can to preserve the Union, and subdue the darkest type of treason the world has ever witnessed, and, at the same time, to support the Constitution.

This monstrous rebellion must be crushed, or mankind's brightest hopes are forever blighted. We cannot, as it seems to me, hope for any considerable period of peace or prosperity on this continent, with two independent nationalities within the present limits of the United States. Certainly not, if they are to be separated only by an imaginary line running east and west, with the great valley of the Mississippi under the jurisdiction of one, and its outlet under that of the other, and one recognizing property in human beings and the other morally and religiously opposed to such recognition. Each would be constantly irritating and hostile to the other. Let no such condition of affairs be established on the soil of America! Subdue this most wicked rebellion, gotten up by the most fiendish traitors, to gratify their unholy ambition, not from fear that their domestic institutions, rights or liberties, would be assailed, nor because they had suffered wrongs from the Government they seek to destroy. Let our flag proudly and freely wave over every foot of our widely extended country, and transmit the political institutions under which we have prospered so well, to posterity unimpaired!

To succeed in this, we must be united, determined and cheerfully sacrifice something of luxury, and perhaps of comfort. And who would not willingly do so to secure such results. We have already yielded up our party organizations, and omitted making party platforms and drawing party lines. We have learned that we must be for the Government, or against it; that there is no middle ground, and that those who have attempted to find it, have very soon been found to be in sympathy with treason, or base enough to join in collusion with the enemies of our country.

The great and powerful political parties in this State, of two years ago, are disorganized and the issues between them have been decided by great events, over which the parties themselves had no control. I do not see how those issues can be again raised, or the parties reorganized. They are passed and gone, and may history do them justice. The great parties of the country to-day are, a Union party, and a disunion party. To the first I give my support; to it I belong; to it I owe my present high position, and it I will endeavor to truly and faithfully represent; and I hope to see that party united, organized, and harmonious, that it may be efficient in its support of our Government which we believe to be better than any that can succeed it. When I arrive at Washington, I shall address myself to the business of my constituents, in Congress and in the Departments. And while there I hope to be fully advised of their necessities and wishes, by letters.

Promising to serve the State loyally and faithfully, to the best of my abilities, and, with warm thanks to the members of the Legislative Assembly for the high honor conferred on me, I close by thanking you all for your kindness and attention.

Mr. Mitchell, of Multnomah county, moved the following resolution:

Resolved, That a State Central Committee be appointed to serve till the meeting of the next State Union Convention, and that such committee be composed of one member from each county in this State.

After discussion, the resolution was unanimously adopted.

On motion of Mr. Reed, of Marion county, the members of the Legislative Assembly of each county nominated the members of the committee for the several counties, who were duly elected by the meeting, as follows:

On motion of Mr. Applegate, proceeded to elect a chairman of the Central Committee, which resulted in the choice of J. H. Moores, of Marion county.

The Richmond Examiner very truly says that anything less than armed intervention by the powers of Europe will do the Confederate cause more harm than good. It says the recognition of Southern independence, the raising of the blockade and alliance, offensive and defensive, with France or England, would exasperate and unite the North, and thus strengthen her; would induce the Confederacy to relax its exertions, and therefore weaken it; and adds that no power in the world can successfully invade the North.

Owing to the failure of the crops in Portugal, and consequent scarcity of breadstuffs, the ports of that nation have been officially declared free to the importation of grain and flour. Last year grain alone was admitted duty free, but the scarcity the present year is greater.

Coughs.—The sudden changes of our climate are sources of Pulmonary, Bronchial and Asthmatic Affections. Experience having proved that simple remedies often act speedily and certainly when taken in the early stages of the disease, recourse should at once be had to "Brown's Bronchial Troches," or Lozenges, let the Cold, Cough, or Irritation of the Throat be ever so slight, as by this precaution a more serious attack may be effectually warded off. Public Speakers and Singers will find them effectual for clearing and strengthening the voice. See advertisement.

White's Patent Lever Trusses.—These instruments are recommended to the public as the best ever constructed. The principle is new and different from any other. The Pad works over a Knuckle, giving it a circular STANDARD UPWARD motion, thus being able to support the rupture with half the pressure required by other Trusses. The pain consequent upon bearing [illegible] is thereby avoided.

These instruments will not rust, and are the lightest, most durable and most cleanly of all others. They can be washed at pleasure. Many persons have been cured by them of ruptures of several years standing.

ENGINE HOUSE NO 1 —We have been requested (and we do so with pleasure since learning more of the facts) to give a more full explanation of the objections urged by Messrs Holmes and Coffin against the awarding of bids for the completion of Engine House No 1. The facts, as we learn them, are about these At a meeting of the City Council several weeks ago, a resolution was passed appropriating the sum of $500 and no more for the completion of the above named building, and the committee on fire and water were afterwards instructed to advertise for bids for this work, according to specifications furnished by Willamette Fire Company, and award the contract to the lowest responsible bidder. An advertisement was accordingly published and a number of bids—sealed proposals—were received by the committee The committee made a lengthy report to the Council, recommending that none of the bids be accepted, as all overreached the amount appropriated for this purpose It also appears [illegible] the Council voted to appropriate the sum of $500 it was deemed, and is still [illegible] by Mr. Holmes and others, to be [illegible] sufficient to pay for the completion of the house in a plain, yet very neat style [illegible] the principal objection urged by Mr [illegible] was not against the completion of the [illegible] but as to the style demanded by the [illegible]. Mr H says that he is desirous of [illegible] the house finished in the same manner [illegible] Engine House No, 2—plain, neat [illegible] ment, but that he is not willing to [illegible] a large sum of money from the Treasury for the purpose of constructing [illegible] ornamental and fancy work, [illegible] the company desire such extra additions to their engine house, it should be done at their own expense, that the condition of the City Treasury will not admit of such extravagance at this time Hence his opposition [illegible] resolution introduced on Wednesday last, instructing the committee to [illegible] with the party putting in the lowest [illegible] for said work, first, because only [illegible] been appropriated by the Council, [illegible] because the work demanded by the [illegible] more than was originally intended by the Council should be done at the [illegible]; and third, because the specifications furnished and published were not sufficiently explicit, or did not particularize [illegible], both as regards style and material [illegible] sufficiently distinct to prevent probable [illegible] or dissatisfaction. We have been thus [illegible] in giving the history of this case as [illegible] to us, in order to set Messrs [illegible] and Coffin right before the company [illegible] the city.

[illegible] —We have reason to believe that [illegible] St. Clair, alias "George Mundy" perpetrates a slander upon parties named in his [illegible] in the Times of yesterday He should [illegible] how he publishes such grave charges [illegible] might have to answer before a [illegible] to complaint involving almost [illegible] ishment as the crime of arson [illegible] live in glass houses should not cast [illegible]

[illegible] its Resources, Capabilities, and [illegible]

BY W. LAIR HILL.

The extent of these valley lands is not definitely known, as no official survey has ever been made of the region in which they lie, excepting comparatively small bodies in the vicinity of the Deschuttes. This stream, the largest affluent of the Columbia in Oregon east of the Cascade Mountains, flows through a valley large enough to maintain a population of many thousand persons. It has already some considerable settlements, mostly composed of stock raisers.

John Day River waters a valley much larger than that of the Deschuttes, and of equal fertility. It is unsettled, and offers great inducements to farmers desiring homes near the mines, where market will always be ready, and produce will command high prices. It is about thirty miles east of the Deschuttes, and has the same general trend, both running north into the Columbia. Of the gold mines on this stream more will be said in another place.

Powder River runs through the largest valley in Eastern Oregon, and probably equal to any other in the excellent quality of its soil. Immigrants from the east are fast settling up this valley, and the prospect is, that it will soon contain a large population. No settlements were made on Powder River previous to the discovery of the gold mines on its head waters, last winter; but it is stated that a large number of the immigrants of this season have already selected their future homes there, and expect soon to be surrounded by an industrious and thriving community, and enjoying the amenities of civilization.

Burnt River has its course through a broken region, very fertile, but better adapted to grazing than to agriculture. This stream is south-east from Powder River, and having the same general direction, flows north-east into Snake River. East of Burnt River the country is exceedingly uninviting. What valleys there are, are small and frequently unproductive. The land, impregnated with alkalies, has scarcely any vegetation growing upon it except artemisia, or sage. Grass is scarce and of poor quality, even along the streams. Of his entering the Burnt River country from this inhospitable waste, in his official explorations, Gen. Fremont says he now came into "a mountainous region, where the soil is good, and in which the face of the country is covered with nutritive grasses and dense forests—land embracing many varieties of trees peculiar to the country, and on which the timber exhibits a luxuriance of growth unknown to the eastern part of the continent and to Europe. This mountainous region," he continues, "connects itself in the southward and westward with the elevated country belonging to the Cascade or California range, and forms the eastern limit of the fertile and timbered lands along the desert and mountainous region included within the great [Utah] basin."

The Grand Ronde, lying a few degrees north of the Powder River Valley, is a beautiful circular valley of some twenty or thirty miles in diameter, watered by a stream bearing the same name. Surrounded by high hills, or spurs of the Blue Mountains, its amphitheatrical form, relieving its smooth, grassy surface, intersected by a bold stream fringed on either margin with small trees, renders it sufficiently charming, to say nothing of the fertility of its soil, which is unsurpassed. Settlements are being made in this valley; also, by the immigrants who have come over the plains, but it will not all be occupied this season.

The following analysis of the soil in Powder River and Grand Ronde Valleys, is reported by Fremont:

POWDER RIVER.		GRAND RONDE.
Silica	72.30	Silica	70.81
Alumina	6.25	Alumina	10.97
Carbonate of lime	6.86	Lime & magnesia	1.38

The Klamath Basin, it is said, contains a large tract of good agricultural lands, but this may be questionable, as no experiments have yet been made to test its qualities for farming purposes. It is a fine grazing district; even in the midst of December it has been found covered with fresh and luxuriant grass. The Klamath is a magnificent lake, possessing one feature in particular, which lakes do not ordinarily have; viz: it has no water in it. It is a fact, though not generally known, that this lake is nothing more than a broad savannah sometimes covered in places with a thin sheet of water for a brief period, but never entirely inundated, and capable of being easily drained and reduced to cultivation.

Goose Lake, Lake Abert, and some others of considerable size, lie in the northern part of the Utah Basin, and are said to be surrounded by large tracts of as fine agricultural land as can be found in the State. That there is some good country around these lakes, is certainly true; but enough is not known of this region to warrant a positive statement that they are very extensive.

Rogue river valley, occupying the extreme southern portion of Western Oregon, and extending into California, is a broken country, or series of valleys separated by rolling highlands, covered in some places with dense forests of fir and cedar, and in others thinly timbered with oak and finely set with grass. It is a very good country for farming, and a superior one for stock raising. Rogue river is not navigable, on account of its numerous cascades. Like all the western portion of the State, this valley is well watered by numerous mountain streams, which are sufficiently large to afford motive power for running any amount of machinery. It is thinly populated, and would furnish homes for an indefinite number of immigrants. Jacksonville, its principal town, is a place of some importance as a mining town.
